NOT THE RIGHT MAN

Sunday night Sergeant G. A. Snavelly received word from the police authorities of Roanoke to way trains for the man that had killed a young boy in Roanoke with a rock, who was supposed to be on a freight train going west. Early Monday morning the authorities here captured a man, he being one of four that were beating their way in an empty freight car, who seem to answer to the description. They wired to Roanoke of the capture and asked for full description, which came later, and seemed to fit the man with the exception of some scars on the back of the head. Later in the day he was enabled to establish his identity as E. S. Music, whose home was at Meadow View, Va., and was released by the authorities.

WORKING FOR THE GOOD OF BOTH THE TOWN AND COUNTY.

A Marion Industry That Goes To The Home And Spreads General Information.

MARION A TOWN WITH NATION-WIDE INDUSTRIES.

Marion is a great Town. It has many great and far-reaching industries that are covering the country as a blanket, that knows no limits to their energies and territory for trade. Notably among these are the Virginia Table Company, the R. T. Geer Botanical Drug Company, the Look & Lincoln Furniture Company and the Culbert Lime Grinding Plant, which are nation wide in their avenues for trade and selling ground.

But Marion has another industry, which as far as Smyth County is concerned is as potential as any of the others; this is the Marion Publishing Company, which is each week sending into the palatial homes of the rich and also the humble cabin of the dweller on the mountain-side the Marion Democrat and the Marion News, carrying information and intelligence which without their weekly visit could not otherwise be obtained. It is not our purpose in this article to go into necessity of a newspaper in this age of industrial progression—without the news service of the country the business world could not exist, but we desire to give a brief outline of the workings and machinery that is required to put out each week the two Marion newspapers, that are a weekly visitor in so many homes in the county of Smyth and adjoining counties, and is a weekly letter to many of the people from the county that have drifted to all parts of the United States, from Maine to Florida and from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

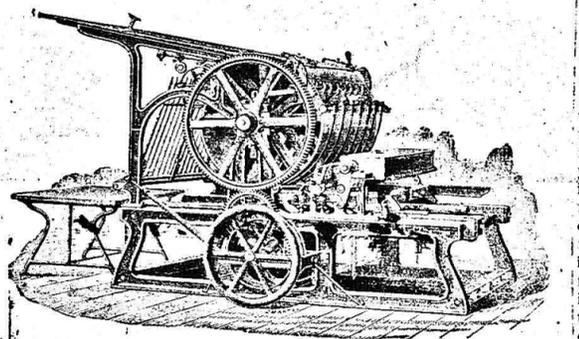

Plant of The Marion Publishing Company.

Its installation our office is taken from the class of what was known in former time as the "country" office and has become capable of handling grades of the highest class of work. This press is driven by an electric motor (3-H. P.) and has three different speeds of rotation which are attained by merely changing a belt from one speed pulley to another. In the matter of newspaper that we have not touched on, but only briefly alluded to the major operations. Despite the utmost care errors will creep in, for it is not one party that we are weekly dealing, but with hundreds of different things, and all must be carried on at the same time. Is it therefore any wonder that the poor printer is guilty of "bad breaks." Poor man, he is used to getting the onus whether he is guilty or not.

The Job Department.
A Job Office and a Newspaper office are two separate and distinct establishments; the kind of machinery used, the stock used for the work, the ink, the type, in fact the whole equipment differs. This has become more pronounced each year, and has resulted in most large cities in the establishment of two branches of the job department. This machine is absolutely dependant on electricity for both motive power and for heating the metal, consequently when there is trouble with the current every part of the newspaper office is thrown out of gear and every work is compelled to stop. In our office the Intertype Machine is in charge of Mr. Joseph C. Stephenson, Jr.

Miscellaneous Equipment.
The implements that are constantly in use in a job office are too numerous for us here to enumerate them all. The Stapler is need for the binding of books and pamphlets; the perforator is demanded in the making of books with stubs and detachable leaves; the Funch is needed to make holes for the filing of leaves in binders, etc. But their name is legion yet the Marion job department is arranged to take care of all the demands.

THE BIG PRESS THAT PRINTS WEEKLY THE NEWS & DEMOCRAT

The present management came to Marion in January, 1921. The offices of publication was then located in the wooden-frame building on the south side of Main Street at the corner of Cemetery Street. While these offices were centrally located they were not nearly large enough for the growing business, and indeed the Job Department had been for several years located in rooms in the old Jackson Building, thus necessitating really two offices, the newspaper offices on one side and the job department on the other side of Main Street.

Gets into a New Fire-proof Brick Building.

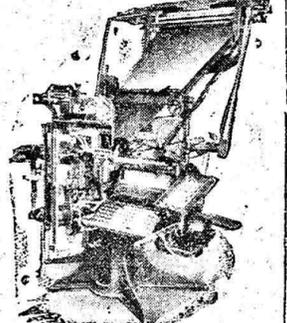

In the spring of 1924 contract was entered into with Mr. R. G. Goolsby for the erecting of a building in the rear of the Jackson building, opposite the Court House Square, of sufficient size to accommodate both offices. This is a brick building with concrete floor, splendidly lighted, and in every way is suited for the purpose of newspaper offices. Into this building the two departments, both newspaper and job, was moved the month of June, and to the credit of the working force he it said that there was no omission in the regular weekly appearance of either paper and only one paper was even a day late in making its appearance. The picture at the center of this paper gives a view of the interior of the room with the working force at their usual places of work: Mr. J. G. Stephenson, foreman of the newspaper department; Joseph G. Stephenson, Jr., who manipulates the keys of the Intertype Type-setting Machine, J. P. Minerick, who has charge of the job department, and not the least member of the force is the "devil," Zeb Petty, who will be seen with the implement of his office in hand, the broom.

To the layman the Press is the most important implement engaged in the production of a newspaper, and for this reason we call attention to the big newspaper Press in our office. This is one of the largest sizes of what is known as the drum cylinder type, and has a speed of from 1800 to 2,000 impressions to the hour. This is one of the best makes of Presses on the market, and not only will it handle all kinds of newspaper work, but will print catalogue and book work equally as well. With the installation our office is taken from the class of what was known in former time as the "country" office and has become capable of handling grades of the highest class of work. This press is driven by an electric motor (3-H. P.) and has three different speeds of rotation which are attained by merely changing a belt from one speed pulley to another. In the matter of newspaper press our office is equipped with a machine that can at any time when it becomes necessary turn the present two weekly papers into a semi-weekly or even a daily. The handling of this machine is in charge of Mr. J. G. Stephenson, who is the pressman as well as the foreman.

Setting Type By Machinery.
The press is a most necessary machine in a newspaper office, but the press to be of service must have type to print from. In the olden days the hand compositor was to be found in every office; but time has changed, the demands on the newspaper has compelled the adoption of a faster means for typesetting, hence the adoption of the slug-casting machine. This is accomplished in the office of the Marion Publishing Company by means of what is known as the Intertype. This machine is one of the wonders of mechanical creation, and performs really five operations in one. The operator works the machine by means of a keyboard similar to a type-writer; as he hits a key a mold containing the face of the letter wanted is dropped into an assembler space, and as soon as he has enough characters to make a line they are sent into the machine, which casts from a pot of molten type-metal, a line; this line is trimmed type high, smoothed on the sides, and made ready for the press. In the meantime the machine has taken the molds (or as they are technically termed matrix) carried them to a spiral distributor rod, and they are returned to machine ready to again fall when the operator strikes a key. This is but a very poor description of this wonderful machine, which has revolutionized the art of composition. The lead from which the type is cast is kept in a molten state by means of an electric heater in the pot that contains the metal; the Intertype is electrically driven, and has a speed of casting 6 lines of type per minute, and the operator at the keyboard and the machine are doing the same work that in the days of the old hand man would have taken five men to do. Our machine is equipped with two magazines, a large and a small size type, and as our mats are what is known as 2-letter mats, the operator has at his command four series of type; should we so desire this machine could be equipped with many other faces of type. It is used in our office not only in the composition of the newspaper, but also in setting many of the advertisements that appear, and also in the composition of much of the work of the job department. This machine is absolutely dependant on electricity for both motive power and for heating the metal, consequently when there is trouble with the current every part of the newspaper office is thrown out of gear and every work is compelled to stop. In our office the Intertype Machine is in charge of Mr. Joseph C. Stephenson, Jr.

The Machine that Sets the Type

Getting Ready for the Post Office

The type has been set, the forms locked up on the press and the big machine has turned out the printed page ready for the reader. But before it can be mailed out it must be folded to the required size, and here again is where the improved machinery in our office is made use of. The Eclipse Newspaper and Job Folding Machine takes the printed page and folds it as exact, in as many folds as is required, as can be done by hand. This is a very fast machine and can be operated just as fast as the paper can be fed into it; it is driven by a small electric motor.

From the folding machine the papers are taken to be addressed. Here as elsewhere is the Marion office equipped with only the best, and the addressing machine used is what is known as the Omaha Mailing Machine. The name of the patron is printed on the margin of the paper; no paste is used in this operation and consequently there is no danger of the name coming off while in transit in the mails. The speed of the addressing machine is only limited by the dexterity of the man that is operating it. The names of the subscribers are set up on the Intertype machine, placed on a galley and run through the addressing machine, which prints one name on each paper. Thus it is that there can be no omission in mailing out the different editions from our office; once a name has been placed on the mailing galley there can be no skipping it on mailing day, and when a subscriber does not get his paper the fault does not lay in the newspaper office, as there can be no omission there; the only way it can be omitted is when it has been ordered to be taken off of the galley.

We have given above a brief outline of the printing of a newspaper. It can be read in but a few moments, but to the newspaper office that has the work to do, it means close and careful attention from Monday morning until after the paper is put in the post office. A newspaper office is no place for a lazy man or a careless one. There is no detail that is unimportant, and there are hundreds that are necessary in the issuing of a Fast Job Presses.

The job printer generally thoroughly understands that human peculiarity well when he puts in his machinery; so he looks after speed. The Marion office is well equipped in this regard, and has two of as speedy job presses as are made. The smaller one, on which the smaller variety of work is printed running at a speed of 2000 per hour, while the larger one will make 1500 impression to the hour. Both of these presses are driven by individual motors, and have all the appliances of the modern press. They are both of the Chandler & Price make, being manufactured in Cleveland, Ohio. All kind of commercial printing, with the exception of embossing and engraving can be handled on these presses, and their speed and versatility make them the most useful and successful machines that can be placed in a job printing office.

Where The Paper Is Cut.

Our Job Department is also equipped with another machine that is absolutely essential in "turning out nice work"; this is a paper cutter; we have a 24-inch Chandler & Price. This is an exceedingly strong and durable cutter, and is often called upon to cut sheets from 22 to 24 inches wide numbering anywhere up to 500 sheets at a single cut; paper is hard to cut and consequently these machines must be very strong with sharp knives to cut the stock. Job papers, cards, and different kinds of stock is bought in large sheets and have to be cut by the printer into such sizes as the work he is called upon to do require; the cutter is a machine that is in constant demand in a job office, and a good cutter is necessary to turning out a well finished job.

Great Variety Of Type Faces.

In this department arises the demand for a variety of type faces that is never-ending, and here is one of the greatest perplexities of the job printer. The type used in job work is very expensive and the variety is endless. There are hardly any two people with the same taste; what one likes another does not. But there are certain standards of good taste, and certain standards of type that will always turn out good work, and in these lines our office is particularly well equipped. These type are contained in type cabinets, and we are continually adding new faces and replacing old ones as they become worn. While we do not claim that the Marion Job Office has all that the trade affords in the way of variety, we do claim that we have a well-stocked assortment of the standard faces that will turn out nice and stylish work, good presses that will print clean nice looking work, and capable men that know how to get the best results from the use of both. Mr. J. P. Minerick has charge of our Job Department, and is an expert pressman and a good job printer.

Paper Cutter Explanatory.

We have taken the trouble and gone to the expense of writing this descriptive article and secured these pictures of the office of the Marion Publishing Company, for the reason that there are really few who know of the business and facilities presented by this office. Almost every man in any kind of business has found out that the day of small business is past; if you are in business you are in competition with other people in the same line, and you must be expansive or you will go to the wall. The pace that has been set is a fast one, and this is especially true in every business since the great World War. In our business the old hand press has been relegated to the junk pile and its place taken by the high speed power press; the old hand compositor is no longer to be seen working at the case, his place has been taken by Linotype machine. In every department in our business is the same story.

This is not along true of the printing trade; the merchant that pursues the practices of the hand compositor is very soon out-striped in the race for business with his competitor that has installed the later day methods. The city merchant no longer goes to the paper man with a demand for inches of advertising, his demand now is for pages. This has compelled the city paper to now issue 50 and 80 pages in place of the old 4 and 8 page paper. Fast trains, daily Rural Carriers place these dailies in the country homes, and with the Parcel Post Delivery, the country merchant is placed in direct competition with his city brother. This is true in our business as well as others.

Thus the force of circumstances has compelled us to expand with the expansion of others, and today we are prepared to give the service that the fast age demands. But we have this advantage to offer that others have not: we live in Smyth County, we give Smyth County news, we advertise Smyth County goods, and we spend our money in Smyth County. Therefore when a dollar is spent with us it stays at home and is put in circulation in the avenues of trade of our County; when it is sent abroad it is lost as far as any reproductive enterprise for this County is concerned—it has gone to help build up and develop some other County. This is true in every line of business that is done in our County, and for this reason we are a strong advocate of KEEPING YOUR MONEY AT HOME.

The business of the Marion Publishing Company is a large one, but it is not as large, and we are not doing as much good in up-building the County as we could do if we had a more hearty co-operation from the people all over the County. Use your County paper. We want correspondents to write us the news from all parts of the County; we want the business men in every part of the County to use our columns in advertising their business for more customers. Remember this—no man in business has got all the custom he wants; it is always the man that does not trade with you that you want the most. The columns of a paper is the most effective advertising medium known to the business world today. The paper is read at home, it is read in the family and discussed there by the family. They are not chance readers, they take the paper for what there is in it for them to read, and a good business advertisement is as much good news to them as a marriage or any other news happening.

In closing this article we wish to thank the people of Smyth County for the liberal support that has been given us since we have lived among them. But it could have been more, and if it had been greater we could have been able to have done more in giving more. We have not got to the top of the ladder of progress in developing the newspaper business in our country, but we want your support and your encouragement. The more you help the better will be what we give and the faster the business will grow and expand. The Marion papers are working for the up-building and development of the people of Smyth County—will you help us?

FIRST FROST DUE OCTOBER 4.

Richmond.—Sixty days from the date of the first fog in August, the old folks say, will come the first frost. The first August fog this year occurred this morning. This should mean that frost will visit this section of Virginia on October 4. This morning's fog was pronounced, but not thick. By this token the first October frost should be easily discernible, but will not be heavy. Readers should make a mental note of the date and see if the old saying turned out to be correct this year. Many people in the rural districts declare that it has never failed.

DAVIS DISAPPOINTS

Boston Herald—Mr. Davis says nothing of the remarkable success which seems to attend the negotiations in progress in London, Paris and Berlin. If deeds count, and Mr. Davis says they do, then the party he castigates really has been doing things of late.

N. Y. Herald-Tribune—Mr. Davis says either too much or too little. The vague innuendo, referring to "the executive" and "some of these in high places" smacks of an effort to cast suspicion without assuming full responsibility therefore.

Philadelphia Inquirer—The Davis acceptance speech is far from convincing. It is one of fault-finding which will get him nowhere. It is one of promises but he offers little of practical value that has not been or will not be undertaken by the present Republican administration.

Duluth News-Tribune—With minor changes the Davis speech might have been delivered by a Republican orator. As an argument for making a change in administration it approaches absolute zero.

Hartford Courant—Mr. Davis has not aided his chances with the electorate by introducing as his major thesis the same principle—membership in the League of Nations—that swept his party to ignominious defeat four years ago.

Milwaukee Sentinel—It is to be regretted that a clearer note was not sounded in the Davis speech, that a constructive document, instead of mere specious pleading, was not evolved.

Springfield Republican—Mr. Davis seems weakest where he should be strongest, and that is on the constructive side of his campaign.

Detroit Free Press—The people are not thinking much about parties just now. They want to know why they should put Calvin Coolidge out of the White House and put in John W. Davis or any one else.

N. Y. Herald-Tribune—One can scan Mr. Davis' speech in vain for any acknowledgment of the new prosperity of the American farmer through the operation of natural laws.

Kansas City Star—The Davis address did not rise to the level of the man who wrote the letter refusing to play politics by giving up his rights.

THE TARIFF AND LABOR

James J. Davis, Secretary of Labor, enroute from Pittsburgh, Pa., to Mooseheart for a brief visit with his family—paused in Chicago long enough to contribute to the comments which Republican party leaders are directing against the acceptance speech of John W. Davis, the Democratic presidential nominee.

The tariff was Secretary Davis' point of attack. He charged that Democratic non-protective tariff tendencies would force hundreds of factories in this country to close down, throwing thousands of men and women out of work.

"Judging from John W. Davis' speech," said the Secretary of Labor, "the aim is to make a summer resort of Pittsburgh thus ridding that metropolis of the smoke nuisance, but, incidentally, causing the removal of its manufacturing enterprises to Wales and other European countries.

"Just what factories, in which parts of the country, would the Democratic candidate have shut down? He will admit that consumption has very definite limits. If foreign products flood our markets in killing competition, there can be only one effect."

Secretary Davis had a word to say about Mr. Davis' failure to touch on immigration.

"Not only did Mr. Davis not treat the immigration problem, but the Democratic platform did not do so," he asserted in this connection. "What do they want to do—admit the 10,000,000 Europeans that are marshaled for a drive against us, who eagerly are awaiting an administration that would permit them to swarm over for the jobs of our own people?"

Commenting on the general outlook, Mr. Davis said: "Coolidge is the big bet. He will be elected by a convincing majority. Mr. Henning, the Assistant Secretary of Labor, has just returned from a tour of Europe. In London it was John W. Davis who was favored. In America—at home—he realized that the cry is for Calvin Coolidge."

The Paint That Will Make Any Floor Beautiful

SOME floors are beautiful in themselves, but all floors, old or new, can be made beautiful with a glossy coat of paint that hides the old, worn surface, or new unattractive surface perfectly.

Devoe Floor paint is easy to apply, is spot-resisting, dries rapidly and is hard enough to protect the floor against a great deal of vigorous wear. Its coat is not brittle and does not crack, check or peel, but wears down gradually and evenly to the end.

Don't call a room homelike until the floor has been made as bright and beautiful as paint can make it.
See that your floors hold the beauty that they get . . . by using Devoe Floor Paint. . . sold in the most artistic and effective tins and tones.

Nation's Farmers Turn to Coolidge, Real Son of Soil, For Sympathetic Understanding of Their Problems

No history of the farming folk of Vermont would be complete without reference to the Coolidge family.

Not only was the President's boyhood spent on the farm at Plymouth, his birthplace, but since and before that time his father has been a tiller of the soil—a practical dirt farmer.

The early environment of Calvin Coolidge has asserted itself annually ever since his rise to high places in the public service. Each year he has visited the old home, donned the smock and cowhide boots of the calling and gone about doing the hundred and one chores that fall to the lot of the farmer. There is no job on a farm with which he is not thoroughly familiar or which he hesitates about carrying out. As one biographer has aptly said: "He always adorned a hayrake with as much facility as a reviewing stand."

The upper photograph would appear to bear out this statement. There have been few dirt farmer Presidents, so that in recent years the photographs of Calvin Coolidge showing him in the smock and boots handed down to him by a worthy grandfater who served in the Vermont Legislature. Have aroused more or less comment. The more sordid have been quick to suspect and have looked upon this raiment as a costume affected for its effect on the voters.

In his boy hood young Coolidge was not, in the vernacular, a "miser." He was overly shy and diffident, but when he did form an attachment for a man, woman or child it was an affection as lasting as the years. He has never forgotten the devoted aunt who nursed him as a baby. Each time he visits Plymouth, no matter what the press of official business, he finds ample time to sit with her and chat of his boyhood.

The lower photograph shows him preparing for a session on the business seat of a mowing machine, an art with which he is just as familiar as he is with his official duties.

OBITUARY

On the morning of April the 20th, 1924 at 4:30 A. M., the death angel visited our home and took from us our beloved husband, father and brother, William Alexander White. He was the son of Cornelius and Rebecca White, born August 9th, 1851, at Gate City, Va.

When only a boy his parents moved to Groseclose. There at an early age of 27 he joined the Pleasant Hill Lutheran church and remained a faithful member until the end.

On October 1st, 1885, he was united in marriage to Nannie Buchanan, to this union was born five children, four girls and one boy. His wife and daughters preceded him to the grave several years ago.

On July 16th, 1913, he was united in marriage to Viola Sprinkle. In April 1922 they moved to Marion, on account of his health which had been bad for several years. But during his sickness he was always patient, cheerful, and had a smile and kind word for everyone.

He was a member of the Odd Fellows, encampment and Junior Orders at Groseclose, in which he served all offices faithfully. He was a good man, highly respected and loved by all who knew him.

His funeral services were conducted at Pleasant Hill Lutheran church by Rev. Ed Balfey, after which his remains were laid to rest at Rural Retreat cemetery.

"So let him sleep that dreamless Sleep our sorrows chustering round his head,
Be comforted ye loved who weep,
He lives with God, he is not dead."

PULLMAN SURCHARGE IN VA. BEEN REMOVED

An order removing the 50 per cent Pullman and parlor car surcharge on inter-State travel in Virginia on and after September 15 was issued today by the State Corporation Commission. Forty-one railroads and steamship lines operating in the State are affected by the order.

The commission announced several weeks ago that it would take this action and in issuing the order today it declared:

"There seems to be no question that the railroads were permitted by this commission and also by the Interstate Commerce Commission to make the surcharge because of the poor financial showing of the railroads at or about the time they were returned by the Government to private operators. It also appears and is of general knowledge, that the financial condition of the railroads has since improved materially."

Here's the reason why the real Orange-Crush is so deliciously different from all imitations: (1) The natural fruit oil of oranges; (2) The natural fruit acid of citrus fruits (oranges, lemons and limes); (3) Orange juice; (4) Pure carbonated water; (5) U. "I have used Black-Draught when needed for the past 25 years," says Mrs. Emma Grimes, of Forbes, Mo. "I began taking it for a bad case of constipation. I don't know just who started me to taking

President Coolidge, Son of Farmer, Knows Problems And Arduous Duties Imposed on Nation's Soil Tillers

DESERVING A FAVORITE OLD TREE AT PLYMOUTH

Perennially aspirants to public office, mindful of the farmer vote, become converts to the cause of agriculture and the farmer and demand justice for the tillers of the soil.

To them there is no significance in the fact that they have been little concerned with this great division of the citizenry during the off-campaign season. The vote's the thing, and one may look from now until November for a veritable deluge of oratory and pictorial evidence that all candidates are for "justice for the farmer." More often than not it is an artificial sponsorship calculated to mislead the Man With the Hoe.

An exception to the rule is refreshing.

CALVIN COOLIDGE DID A LITTLE MILKING

Calvin Coolidge early took his place upon the farm. Born in Plymouth, Vermont, twelve miles from the nearest railroad depot, he is the son of a dirt farmer and has experienced all the hardships, reverses and arduous labors that fall to the lot of the farmer boy. One biographer has said of him: "While many of the boys of today are feverishly putting on the golf green, Cal was happy in pursuing to its native lair the sportive potato. He early and always has been an artist in mowing and divorcing the lowing herd which winds slowly o'er the lea from the butter and cheese."

He took the oath of office in the Coolidge farm house.

And, as the biographer has pointed out, the bovines of Plymouth, Vermont, have enjoyed a rare distinction. It is not every cow that can be milked by a President of the United States, any more than it is every President of the United States that can milk a cow. President Coolidge not only is "at home" on a farm. A farm is home to the Chief Magistrate of the land.

Erro, his must be a natural understanding of the farmer and his problems, and a consequent deep sympathy with him that is not prompted by campaign expediency or vote seeking.

President Coolidge did not have to pose for the above photographs, either. They were taken years ago, when he was Vice-President and before there was any intimation that he was destined to hold the highest office in the land. It was during a vacation on his father's farm that the photographer snapped him as he raked the mown hay, started for the cow pen at milking time and essayed a bit of surgery on one of his favorite old shade trees.

The same farm smock and boots he wore when the pictures were taken still repose in the hall closet of the old family home and await his pleasure. He knows how to wear them, and, what is of more interest to his fellow farmers, what to do after he puts them on.

"He has always adorned a hay rake with as much facility as a reviewing stand," the afore-quoted biographer declares.

That would appear to make him eligible, at least, for consideration by the farmer.

BIG FAIR OPENS

Better Exhibits Than Ever Before.
A Nice and Clean Show on the Midway

The Fourteenth Annual Smyth County Fair opened Tuesday with the biggest amount of Exhibits that has ever been shown at a Fair in the County. Every line is well represented—Live Stock, all kinds of Farm Products, Poultry, Canning, Needle-work, and in fact everything that can be shown at a Fair. Not only is the amount of the Exhibits greater than has ever been shown at any Fair before, but their quality is the best. We do not make this statement on our own authority alone, but this is the opinion of people that have been connected with every Fair that has been had in the County since this organization.

The amusement part of the program is a very good one, and it is clean and healthy. The children will have all the enjoyment that they are looking for.

Don't fail to attend both day and night, and you will be glad to remember that you were at the Smyth County Fair of 1924.

WEDNESDAY and THURSDAY.
Growing Better and Better Each Day.
Beautiful Weather Big Crowds.

The Annual Fair of the Smyth County Fair Association opened with the first day of attractions, exhibits and band concert, by Higgin's Band of New York. The free attractions are prettier and more extensive than ever, with thrilling acrobatic acts, dancing, animal shows and wire walkers, Herberts trained dogs and the Flying Ballet. All of these acts come between the various horse races and the balloon ascension closed the free attractions in the afternoon and the great spectacular Fireworks display closed the evening performance at night.

The exhibits include those of every description including wild game, animals, vegetables, fruits, tobacco, of an especially fine grade, flax and cotton raised in this country, art, flowers, needle-work, canned goods, poultry and animals not only from this state and county but from northern and western states as well. The exhibit of wild birds and animals from the Virginia State Game Department is of especial interest and is a new attraction. Clark's Famous Broadway Shows form the carnival attractions. This is a large show traveling on a train of twenty-five cars.

This is one of the greatest fairs ever arranged by the members of the fair association and is being well attended by people from a distance as well as those living in this and adjoining counties.

Will Teach The Children

SMYTH COUNTY PUBLIC SCHOOLS TO OPEN SEPT 8TH.

All the public schools of Smyth County will open on September 8th. The annual teachers' institute will be held in Marion on Thursday and Friday preceding.

The County School Board desires to express the hope that the local school committees will see that the school buildings are in proper shape for occupancy when the children assemble on the first day. It is further desired that the committee attend the opening of school, and accord a kindly reception to the teacher, offering such suggestions as will be helpful to her in the organization of her work.

The special attention of the patrons is called to the importance of having the children enter school on the first day. Each child will be required to present its promotion card on the opening of school, and parents are urged to see that their children take the cards with them.

The citizens of every community are asked to use all proper means to aid the school board in securing the enrollment and attendance of all children of school age. The compulsory attendance law requires all children between the ages of eight and fourteen years to attend school.

Smyth's Big Industry

NEW SHEETROCK WALL-BOARD MILL

Plasterco, Va., August 28.—Opening of the new Sheetrock wall-board mill of the United States Gypsum Company here recently has called attention to another of Virginia's mineral resources of wealth, gypsum. Gypsum is a white rock which is mined in 23 of the 48 states. The Plasterco workings are among the oldest in the country.

Originally, gypsum was promoted as a fertilizer. Ben Franklin advocated it as "mineral manure" or "land plaster" and he enlisted the interest of George Washington and Judge Peters of Virginia in promoting it. It was not until 92 years ago that gypsum began to be used as wall-plaster. Since then it has become recognized as a standard building material and has found, besides, some 150 uses in such businesses as the movies, dentistry, surgery, sculpture, cob pipe making, plate glass moulding, pottery-making, electric light-socket manufacture and the production of automobile tires.

One of the most recent uses invented for gypsum is Sheetrock fireproof wall-board. It was first produced during the war to meet the government's need for a non-inflammable large-unit material to line the walls and ceilings of cantonment buildings. The same qualities that made it suit the army's needs have put Sheetrock in great demand as a home-building material.

Being made of rock, it will not warp, buckle or shrink. So it can be papered, calcemined, painted, covered with any prepared wall-fabric or treated with Textone, a new decorative material also manufactured by the United States Gypsum Company. It will last as long as the building and, in case of fire, will confine the heat and flames to a single room instead of permitting it to spread throughout the house. Coming in large sheets convenient to fit the studding of any building, it is economical to apply.

Because of these qualities, Sheetrock is being used in churches, school-dwellings, hotels and apartment-buildings throughout the country. Until the opening of the new Plasterco mill prospective builders in the Southeast had to pay high freights on wallboards made in the North. But now it is possible to get rapid, low-cost shipments in the smallest cities as well as the larger centers. It is to give this improved service to builders in Virginia that the Sheetrock plant was constructed here.

IN MEMORY

In sweet but sad remembrance of dear little Melvin Clarence Smyth, who left this world July 12, 1924. Age one year 9 months and 24 days.

Little Melvin, as we all knew him, was a sweet little child, which God lent to us just a little while, to brighten our lives here on earth. But sad was the parting when God called him home, but if it is Gods will we will meet our loved ones on the other shore where no parting tears are ever shed, where we will all be together to know no parting words.

Little Melvin leaves father, mother, one sister and three brothers, and many friends to mourn their lost. His remains were taken to Zion and laid to rest to wait the voice of the great eternity one, who will call at the last day to those that sleepeth in Jesus, and say come and receive your blessing.

By his loving aunt,
MYRTLE E. KITS.

Rev. and Mrs. D. S. Fix and son Martin Luther, motored from Waynesboro, Va., to W. Va., and visited their son William A. Fix then on to Tazewell and Burks Garden and visited their brothers and sisters, then to Marion to visit their daughters, Mrs. C. P. Groseclose and Miss Rosella Fox. Mrs. Groseclose accompanied them home and attended the Lutheran training school at Waynesboro, returning home Wednesday.

Mrs. Etta Maiden of McCarr, Ky., is visiting her friends and old home near Marion; she attended the big Smyth County Fair while on her visit. Mrs. Maiden is now making her home with her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Maiden, at McCarr, Ky., where Mr. Maiden holds a responsible position with the Lynn Coal and Coke Company.

THE HATCHET.

A copy of the 1924 Hatchet, the Marion College Annual, which has been sent to our office has been much appreciated. The Hatchet is a splendid publication and reveals much of the college. It shows marked ability from an editorial viewpoint. As citizens of Marion and Smyth we are especially interested in certain pages.

The Marion Club is to our mind the most attractive club in the entire annual. It has as its slogan the annual. It has as its slogan of the Kiwanis Club with an addition made by the club: "Marion, the heart of Southwest Virginia; the Marion Club the heart of the college." Miss Mary Bryant was president of the club and deserves much credit for the artistic arrangement of the photograph.

The page devoted to the Commuters' Club is also most attractive. This page shows the photograph of the large number of students who came to the College last year as day students, driving each day in automobiles. The suggestions is made that next year they will come by airship rather than by automobile. We understand that there will be a larger number of students who will drive to the College for the 1924-25 session and that the College is making special arrangements to make these students comfortable and to enable them to share in the college life so far as possible.

The Rich Valley Club, which is a Smyth County organization, is most attractive and has in it a number of good looking girls who claim that they "come from Rich Valley, the home of bluegrass, of fine cattle, of fast horses, of handsome men and beautiful women, the land where the corn grows tallest, where the wheat is most golden and the flowers have the rarest fragrance."

One page in the Hatchet has the cut of the Kiwanis Club in it and is an expression of the courtesies shown the college girls by the Kiwanis Club.

It is gratifying to note that many of our Marion business firms encouraged the editorial staff by placing advertisements in the Hatchet.

Dr. Johnson will preach at At-toway next Sunday, August 31st, at 11 o'clock A. M., the pastor being absent.

Miss Mary Copenhaver, of Richmond, is the guest at the home of Miss Kate Copenhaver, of Seven Mile Ford.

Flu Left Her In Run Down Condition and Rheumatism Set In—Tanlac Corrected This.

"For five years, Tanlac has kept me in splendid health and I never miss an opportunity to praise it," said Mrs. A. H. Johnson, 2305 Fairmont Ave., Richmond, Va., recently.

"In 1918, influenza left me without appetite, my digestion and nerves upset and so weak I could hardly walk. In a few weeks, through the fine appetite, digestion and nerves

Tanlac gave me, and being able to sleep so good, I was feeling perfectly strong and well.

"Then, two years ago, rheumatism attacked me in my shoulders and limbs so bad it seemed nothing could help me. But I began taking Tanlac again, and soon the rheumatism practically disappeared. Since then I haven't had any serious trouble for when I feel any sign of rheumatism or any other ailment, I take Tanlac and it always sets me right. Tanlac is the best ever."

What Is Your Duty?

PLEA FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT.

What profit has the United States if it gain the business of the whole world, and lose its own soul in lawlessness? What are we building for our children? It is as though we were creating a magnificent ship with one hand while with her other hand we are destroying the man power which is necessary to guide it through the troubles seas of the future. Our faith in our political leaders is too often shaken by their seeming indifference to this vital question of law enforcement, and a worm (the worm disrespect for law) is eating out the heart of the future leaders. What sort of standards are we demanding of our public officials?

Is not our whole future at stake if our legislators vote for the enforcement of the law and in their homes and before their children break the law? Will not our position before the world soon become of a nation whose word can not be trusted because we are not even true to our own institutions? What respect can children have for their mothers and fathers whom they see scornfully choose which laws of the land they will obey and which they will ignore? If parents put stumbling-blocks in the paths of their children, what can the future expect of these children? Is there a woman here who dares any longer to close her eyes to these problems? Shall we stand idly by with that great instrument of power—the vote—in our hands and do nothing?
