Secret Marriage.

BY RUFUS HALE.

Mary Graham was a pretty girl of sixteen, and William Trueman, her lover, who was three years her senior, was a fine, manly fellow for his age. Their fathers were partners in a village hardware store, where William was employed as clerk.

The lovers feared that Mary's father would force her to accept the attention of a certain retired, wealthy old merchant named Roger Bronson, who sometimes called upon him, and who seemed to have taken a liking to the girl.

This lovers finally resolved, after talking over the matter, that they would go off down the river in William's boat and get married without their parents' knowledge.

Therefore, as shown above, Mary had agreed to be there at six o'clock on the morrow.

Timid and blushing, but none the less firm in her purpose, Mary came at the appointed time.

William helped her into the boat; then he unrolled his sail, and away he went with his intended prize.

It was a dark, cloudy afternoon. As the two sailed on, a terrific gale suddenly burst upon them from the direction of the land, driving the boat from the coast.

The sail was torn and blown away before William could roll up his canvas and take down his mast.

Darkness at length fell upon the stormy sea, with no abating of the tempest.

In the distance William saw the light of a vessel, but he had no hope of reaching it, as it seemed to recede from him.

'We may be picked up' he said to Mary. 'That craft is coming this way.'

As he spoke a wave, more violent than any which had preceded it, struck the boat, hurling it sideways, with a suddenness which caused the youth to lose his balance.

He fell overboard, trying to clutch the stern as he went, but in vain.

A minute later the boat shot out of sight in the darkness, and there he was, struggling in the wild sea.

He was an excellent swimmer, but he must eventually have perished in the raging waters had he not caught hold of the boat's mast, which had been swept from the craft by the torrent of water that had rushed over the gunwale when he fell into the ocean.

For a long time he clung to the spar, thinking more of Mary, however, than of himself.

Left alone in that drifting boat, she might, he feared, be unable to keep his head to the sea, although her position was such that she could easily work the tiller.

The 'sea' had gone down a little since the change of wind, but there was still danger of the boat's being swamped unless it was carefully managed.

William kept his gaze upon the vessel's light which had previously been approaching. This, now, was moving along in another direction. It passed him at too great a distance for him to make himself heard by shouting.

Hours went by. The gale had abated, and the moon had for some time been shining from a cleared sky.

William noticed he was now drifting towards the coast.

He saw the sail of a fishing smack coming out from the cape in the distance. Standing along, first on one tack and then on the other, it finally drew near enough for him to make himself heard by the crew.

He was picked up, and he persuaded the men to cruise in search of his boat.

It was found at last, tumbled bottom upward and empty.

'I thought so!' groaned the youth. 'Mary is lost!'

Dawn was now come. The fishermen took the young man to land. He hurried home, and frankly described what had happened to his father.

'Foolish boy!' cried the latter. 'What have you done? There was not the slightest necessity for your attempt to get married without the knowledge of Mr. Graham and myself. We both should have approved of the match. We knew, or at least inferred, that you liked each other, although we were not sure that you were lovers.'

'But we have often talked about you by ourselves, and said we hoped you and Mary would conclude to marry each other.'

'I will also now tell you a secret. Roger Bronson, your eccentric old relative, liked Mary so well—had so high an opinion of her—that he, too, hoped you would choose her in preference to any other young woman for a wife.'

'No, no; it cannot be,' said William. 'He wanted her himself.'

'You are entirely mistaken. And what you say is not to be believed for Mr. Graham and me he meant to do for you if you married Mary.'

'For me?'

'Yes. He intended to make you a present of ten thousand dollars on the day you became her husband.'

'How I have misjudged him! Why—oh, why!—did you not tell me all this before? Had I known it, my Mary would have been spared to me!'

'As regards Roger Bronson, he charges me to say nothing to you about his benevolent intention, for he did not want to have you influenced in any way. Of course, he did not know your character or he would never have been afraid that you could be bribed into marrying the young lady. Nevertheless, as he wished me to do so up to the present time. Now, as the poor girl is lost, there is no longer, in my opinion, any reason why you should not learn the truth. Neither Mr. Graham nor myself wished, under the circumstances, to say anything that might have the slightest effect upon either your choice or Mary's. We therefore never praised or recommended one of you to the other. We wished to leave you entirely to your own inclinations.'

William's feelings, on hearing these statements, may be imagined. His grief was almost beyond endurance.

The fact that his attempt at a secret marriage, which had brought about the unfortunate occurrence, had been wholly unnecessary, added to the torments he suffered.

His father endeavored to soothe him, but for hours he paced the floor of his room like a mad-man, refusing all offers of consolation.

Finally Mr. Trueman said: 'We must break the sad news to Mary's father. Will you come with me?'

The young man snatched up his hat, and the two hurried to Mr. Graham's house.

They found him at home, and they at once told the story.

They were amazed at the calm manner in which he received the gloomy tidings.

He took a pinch of snuff, sneezed, and then bade the two follow him up stairs.

They did so. He led them straight to Mary's room, and there, on the couch, lay the young girl, pale and weak still, but recovering from the effect of her excitement and suffering.

A doctor was by her side, and

William almost knocked him over in his haste to embrace the fair one he had thought was lost to him forever.

Mary had heard of her lover's rescue from some fishermen who had come to Mr. Graham's house to inform him of what had happened.

She had been picked up, hours before he was saved, by the vessel whose light he had seen. The craft had passed close to the boat. She contrived to make her voice heard, and as the moon was then shining, she was finally seen by the sailors. The boat being half full of water, had turned over, bottom up, soon after she left the tiller to get into the dingy which had been lowered for her. She then begged the men not to lose time by stopping to tow the heavy overturned boat to their schooner, but to get aboard as soon as possible and look for her lover.

Their search for him was in vain. They took Mary to land. She hired a conveyance, and she reached her father's house soon after midnight. Her excitement—her anguish at William's supposed loss—made her so ill that a doctor was sent for.

The news, not long after, of her lover's safety probably benefited her more than did the medicine prescribed for her.

The affair ended to the satisfaction of all concerned when, a few weeks later, the lovers were united at the house of the bride's father.

Good Roger Bronson was there, and his present to the bridegroom was a check for the promised ten thousand dollars.

The couple are happy, but they will not soon forget their perilous experience in needless attempt at secret wedlock.

Young persons who would marry without the knowledge of their parents should remember that such a course is apt to be attended with more sorrow than pleasure, and, as William Trueman, it is often "unnecessary."

A Queer Marriage Ceremony.

In the Northwestern part of our county, there lives a well-known Irish magistrate, a man of liberal education and a full quota of genuine Irish wit. A short time ago Jim and Bet, a colored pair, called upon the 'Squire' to be united "for better or for worse." The 'Squire' having been notified of their coming, prepared and actually used the following ceremony:

"Jim, will you take Bet, Without any regret, To love and to cherish, Till one of you perish And is laid under the sod; So help you God?"

All of which being answered in the affirmative by Jim, the 'Squire' turned to Bet and said:

"Bet, will you take Jim, And cling to him, Both out and in, Through thick and thin, Holding him to your heart, Till death do you part?"

Bet acquiesced by a modest bow of the head, and the now happy pair were dismissed as follows:

"Thro' life's alternate joy and strife, I now pronounce you man and wife; Go up life's hill till you get to the level, And salute your bride, you rusty black devil."

There is more hid in Christ than we shall ever learn; but they who begin first to inquire will soonest be gladdened with revelation.

Unless you are just you cannot be completely and consistently kind. Justice never frowned on kindness, and kindness never interferes with justice.

A Sensible Family.

A family named Johnson, living in Washington county, were all taken down with flux in a very aggravating form. Having seen a notice in one of the country papers in regard to Dr. Lytle's Elixir, the medicine was at once sent for, and although the delay in procuring it came near proving fatal in two of the cases, yet a faithful use of this well known remedy resulted in the speedy control of the disease and restoration to health of every member of the family. At a time when flux and all other bowel troubles are so prevalent Lytle's Elixir ought to be kept ready for use.

ADDRESS,

Patriot and Herald,

MARION, VA.

IT MUST NOT BE.

There can be no doubt that the result of the recent election in Virginia has produced demoralization and dread in the ranks of the Democracy of the State.

If the Democrats chose to make it a personal contest, so far as they are concerned they are perfectly welcome to do so; but the Republicans of Virginia do not intend to be led into such a scramble.

THE TOTAL VOTE.

The following was the official vote in Virginia in the two years named: Total vote in 1885, 289,054. Total vote in 1886, 225,301.

Showing a falling off of 63,753. Of this great falling off 13,430 was only from the Republican vote.

by disgust of another kind. They are men who are really for Republican principles and a Republican platform.

We told the people in 1883 that a Funder-Democratic victory meant unsettlement and destruction of the Riddleberger settlement.

Yes, but the first effort of the "Funder-Democrats" was to amend an Act of the General Assembly, known as "Coupon Killer No. 2."

A special from Evansville, Ind., Nov. 26. A very strange phenomenon in the heavens was witnessed last night by nearly the entire city.

NORFOLK, VA., Nov. 26, 1886.

To the Editor of the Public Ledger: Will you please publish the following just tribute to Col. Lamb's bravery at Fort Fisher?

A FRIEND.

COL. LAMB AT FORT FISHER.—Acting Adjutant John N. Kelly, who participated in the two battles at Fort Fisher, writes to Col. Lamb in a letter published in 1882, as follows:

Northern capitalists continue to invest in lands on the Eastern Shore.

The submarine cable between Capes Charles and Henry has been completed.

The biggest price ever paid for a farm in Virginia was $1,500 per acre for nine and one third acres near the new reservoir in Richmond.

A Canal Through Florida.

The project of the Atlantic and Mexican Gulf Canal Company to connect the waters of the Atlantic with those of the Gulf of Mexico by the construction of a canal through the northern part of the Florida peninsula is gaining much favor in this city.

The saving in distance between New Orleans and the East will be over eight hundred miles. This canal would be the channel through which the products of an immense region dependent on water-ways for the transportation to eastern markets would find an outlet.

A New Departure.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 29.—A singular scene was witnessed at Los Angeles Saturday night. John L. Sullivan gave his exhibition to a crowded house, and in the midst of the set-to between the champion and Steve Taylor, a reformed pugilist named Ben Hogan, who is conducting revival meetings in that city, mounted the platform and began a speech.

Governer's Case.

RICHMOND, Nov. 30.—The counsel for Cliverius, condemned to hang December 10, for the murder of his cousin, Fannie Lillian Madison, waited on Governor Lee to night and presented a numerous signed petition asking for a commutation of the death sentence.

It is current belief that on this account the Governor will respite Cliverius, but there are hardly any who are at all familiar with the case and its bearings, expects the Governor will either commute or pardon the prisoner.

The second trial of ex Alderman McQuade began yesterday in Part I. of the Court of General Sessions.

The finding of the coroner's jury in the case of the four men killed in the railway collisions at Savoy, Ill., lays the blame on the management of the road, and suggests that the attention of the grand jury be called to the matter.

A grand reception, at which fifteen hundred persons were present, was tendered Henry M. Stanley in New York yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Andros Stone and Mr. and Mrs. Vincenzo Botta.

The Havana cigar makers have once more returned to work.

Yee Hang, a Chinaman, hung himself in the Pittsburg, Pa., workhouse yesterday. The act was caused by despondency.

Frank Kerner, the Reading, Pa. wife murderer, made a confession yesterday. He said that he strangled her and then set fire to the house to conceal his crime.

For Naughty Boys Last Night.

Several first-class hotels in various parts of the country now give a permanent place on their bills of fare for boiled clam juice. The secret of the potency of this preparation, which is simply what the name calls it—the juice of the clam-boiled until moderately thick—has long been known, it is said, in London swill-dom, but here it is comparatively new.

A. G. PENDLETON, Supt. Pub. S. Smyth Co.

Beginning with today we offer the New York Tribune and the Patriot and Herald for $2 per year cash down. This is a great sacrifice but we are determined to increase our circulation. Or we will give you the Philadelphia Weekly Press and the Patriot and Herald for $2 cash down. The character of these two papers is too well known to need much comment. They are large sixteen and eight page papers respectively and are conducted by the ablest journalists that our country affords. Both of them have a circulation of more than one hundred thousand and enjoy a most lucrative business. Hence they can afford a great outlay for news and the consequence is no paper outstrips them in point of news. Every one owes it to himself to keep well informed on the current topics of the day, and he should certainly keep up with the political and social problems that are constantly arising. All of this can be known for the paltry sum of $2. And then again, he should know all about the workings of our government, should understand her laws, know her customs and keep up with the general progress of events. This information will be given in a nice form for a mere pittance. That isn't all. You should at least know something of what is passing in foreign countries when you can find out without any trouble. A newspaper is a great educator. You learn the laws of the country, you learn business principles, you can vote intelligently on questions that immediately concern you, you broaden your views of the world and in fact get a fund of information that you couldn't get from any other source. These papers will also furnish you with reports of sermons, great speeches, and light, entertaining reading. If you read diligently you perfect yourself in moral and intellectual worth which must have its effect. Now much more might be said to induce you to subscribe but we will only ask you to remember that knowledge is power.

A life of indolent ease and sensual gratification, the use of highly seasoned animal food, and alcoholic drinks, are the predisposing causes of Gout.

Be aware of its presence in the system lose no time in procuring Serravallo's Gout Remedy. It kills pain. Price 25 cents a bottle.

Just when you love life!—Then do not squander valuable time,—for that is the stuff life is made of,—but procure a bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup for your cough and be cured. Your cough keeps it.

This paper and the Philadelphia Press for only $2 a year in advance.

Do you want to read and keep up with the times? If you do, send us $2 and we will mail you one year of this paper and the New York Tribune.

Our hearts have many secrets. Circumstance is the occasion of vice.

We cannot judge of the griefs of others.

That which pains one is happiness to another.

Prayer is the great relief to troubled hearts.

Life is too short to be worn out in petty worries.

Assert nothing as a fact of which you are not sure.

He who runs after a shadow has a wearisome race.

Do not contend in words about things of no consequence.

Let the bent of thy thoughts be to mend thyself, rather than the world.

The reproaches of enemies should quicken us to duty and not keep us from it.

It is nobler to endure the hunger of poverty than the cavings of covetousness.

Praises are valuable only when they come from lips that have the courage to condemn.

He that places himself neither higher nor lower than heought to, exceeds the truest humility.

American Enterprise.

No invention of the nineteenth century has worked a greater revolution in household economy or conferred more of a benefit on humanity than the sewing machine.

The first productions were crude and uncouth in the extreme, and it was reserved for American skill and ingenuity to bring forth a machine of any practical value.

In order to appreciate the great advancement which has taken place it is only necessary to compare one of the machines built during the infancy of the invention with one of the latest improved "Light-Running New Home."

All the really good points contained in other machines have been utilized in its construction. Many new improvements and devices have also been added, the result of which is a machine as nearly perfect as it is possible to make one.

For simplicity, durability, ease of management and capacity for work, the "Light-Running New Home" has no rival, and the happy possessor of one may rest assured that he or she has the very best the world affords. See advertisement on another page of this paper.

"THE IDEAL MAGAZINE"

For young people is what the papers call ST. NICHOLAS. Do you know about it—how good it is, how clean and pure and helpful? If there are any boys or girls in your house will you not try a number, or try it for a year, and see if it isn't just the element you need in the household? The London Times has said, "We have nothing like it on this side." Here are some leading features of:

Stories by Louisa M. Alcott and Frank R. Stockton, several by each author. A Short Serial Story by Mrs. Burnett, whose charming "Little Lord Fauntleroy" has been a great feature in the past year of ST. NICHOLAS.

War Stories for Boys and Girls. Gen. Badeau, chief-of-staff, biographer, and confidential friend of Gen. Grant, and one of the ablest and most popular of living military writers, will contribute a number of papers describing in clear and vivid style some of the leading battles of the civil war. They will be panoramic descriptions of single contests or short campaigns, presenting a sort of literary picture-gallery of the grand and heroic contests in which the parents of many a boy and girl of today took part.

The Serial Stories include "Juan and Juinita," an admirably written story of Mexican life, by Frances Courtenay Baylor, author of "On Both Sides," also, "Jenny's Boarding-House," by James Otis, a story of life in a great city.

Short Stories, instructive and entertaining, will abound. Among these are: "How a Great Panorama is Made," by Theodore R. Davis, with profuse illustrations; "Winning a Commission" (Naval Academy), and "Recollections of the Naval Academy"; "Boring for Oil" and "Among the Gas-Works," with a number of striking pictures; "Child-Sketches from George Eliot," by Julia Magruder; "Victor Hugo's Tales to his Grandchildren," reprinted by Brander Matthews; "Historic Girls," by E. S. Brooks. Also interesting contributions from Nora Perry, Harriet Prescott Spofford, Joaquin Miller, H. H. Boyesen, Washington Gladden, Alice Wellington Rollins, G. T. Trowbridge, Lieutenant Frederick Schwatka, Noah Brooks, Grace Denio Litchfield, Rose Hawthorne Lathrop, Mrs. S. M. Platt, Mary Mapes Dodge, and many others, etc., etc.

The subscription price of ST. NICHOLAS is $3.00 a year, 25 cents a number. Subscriptions are received by booksellers and newsdealers everywhere, or by the publishers. New volume begins with the November number. Send for our beautifully illustrated catalogue (free) containing full prospectus, etc., etc.

THE CENTURY CO., NEW YORK.

THE LIFE OF LINCOLN, BY HIS CONFIDENTIAL SECRETARIES, JOHN C. RICHTER and Co. John Hay.

This great work, begun with the sanction of President Lincoln, and continued under the authority of his son, the Hon. Robert T. Lincoln, is the only full and authoritative record of the life of Abraham Lincoln before his presidency; they were most intimately associated with him as private secretaries throughout his term of office, and to them were transferred upon Lincoln's death all his private papers. Here will be told the inside history of the civil war and of President Lincoln's administration.—Important details of which have hitherto remained unrecorded, that they might first appear in this authentic history. By reason of the publication of this work,

THE WAR SERIES, which has been followed with unflagging interest by a great audience, will occupy less space during the coming year. Gettysburg will be described by Gen. Hunt (Chief of the Union Artillery), Gen. Longstreet, Gen. E. M. Law, and others; Chancellorsville, by Gen. D. H. Hill; Sherman's March to the Sea, by Gen. S. B. Mower and Sherman; Gen. Q. A. Gillmore; Wm. F. Smith, John Gibbon, Horace Porter and John S. Mosby will describe special battles and incidents. Stories of naval engagements, prison life, &c., &c., will appear.

NOVELS and STORIES. "The Hundredth Man," a novel by Frank R. Stockton, author of "The Lady or the Tiger?" etc., begins in November. Two novelettes by George W. Cable, stories by Mary Halleck Foote, "Uncle Remus," Julian Hawthorne, Edward Eggleston and other prominent American authors will be printed during the year.

SPECIAL FEATURES (with illustrations) include a series of articles on affairs in Russia and Siberia, by George Kennan, author of "Tent Life in Siberia," who has just returned from a most eventful visit to Siberian prisons; papers on the Food Question, with reference to its bearing on the Labor Problem; English Cathedrals; Dr. Eggleston's Religious Life in the American Colonies; Men and Women of Queen Anne's Reign; by Mrs. Oliphant; Clairvoyance, Spiritualism, Astrology, etc., by the Rev. J. M. Buckley, D. D., editor of the Christian Advocate; astronomical papers; articles throwing light on Bible history, etc.

PRICES. A FREE COPY. Subscription price, $4.00 a year, 35 cts a number. Dealers, postmasters and the publishers take subscriptions. Send for our beautifully illustrated 24-page catalogue (free), containing full prospectus, etc., including a special offer by which new readers can get back numbers to the beginning of the War Series at a very low price. A specimen copy (back number) will be sent on request. Mention this paper.

Miraculous Escape. W. W. Reed, druggist, of Winchester, Ind., writes: "One of my customers, Mrs. Louisa Pike, Bartonia, Randolph Co., Ind., was a long sufferer with Consumption, and was given up to die by her physicians. She heard of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, and began buying it of me. In six months time she walked to this city, a distance of six miles, and is now so much improved she has quit using it. She feels she owes her life to it." Free Trial Bottles at J. S. Pendleton, Drug Store.
